Dear Mr. Epstein,

David Sloan Wilson and I want to invite you to the Paduano Symposium in Business Ethics at the Stern School of Business, New York University on Friday November 16, 2012 from 1:20pm-2:40pm. The seminar will be held in Room 19 on the UC (Upper Concourse) level of Stern's Tisch Hall which is located at 40 West 4th Street, NYC,10012.

The symposium will cover the importance of complexity science and evolution in relation to business ethics. It will also set the stage for a new center at the business school founded by Jonathan Haidt whose goal is to draw on the best behavioral science research to create organizations that function as ethical systems, with only minimal need for directly training people to behave ethically.

The speakers include David Sloan Wilson, Jonathan Haidt, Robert Frank, and Paul Fromer. I will send you the official poster when it is listed on the NYU site. Meanwhile, if you have any questions please contact me.

Regards,
Robert

> Dear Mr. Epstein,

I am Robert Kadar founder and editor of Evolution: This View of Life, an online science magazine that broadly investigates all life from an evolutionary perspective (launched February 12, 2012 Darwin Day. The magazine especially focuses on the burgeoning science of cultural evolution and human prosociality in relation to social, political, and economic affairs (and more). Hence, we encroach on established academic turfs. Moreover, we aim to re-introduce evolutionary science into the currency of modern thinking and public discourse—not as the distorted representation often thrown back and forth in the popular media, but as a powerful lens through which to view the events and behaviors around us.

This project is under the umbrella of the Evolution Institute directed by Dr. David Sloan Wilson.

Eventually we anticipate sufficient funding from the NSF to keep afloat on a long term basis. Presently, we are surviving entirely on small donations from individuals like you who support what we do. I encourage you to take a good look at the magazine. If you like what it is doing, please consider lending it a helping hand. Your assistance will be greatly appreciated.

If you have questions or concerns about what we do do not hesitate to express them to me and do not feel bound by an etiquette of politeness. Like you I grew up in a cultural environment hospitable to intellectual banter and vigorous disputation subject in the end only to conformity with the facts on the ground.

Regards,
Robert
